OUR PARENTS HAVE GREAT THINGS TO SAY ABOUT OUR AFTERNOON CLASSES!

"I have loved afternoon classes for both my boys as it gets them used to longer days! Naps used to be a huge thing for my boys, but by doing afternoon classes, they are mentally and physically stimulated after lunch and are able to power through the whole day nap free! This is great prep for Kindergarten as well as they sleep better at night!

Overall, I feel kiddos get restless in the afternoon and a parents reaction is screentime or nap time, or something like that, but afternoon allows for that activity on full bellies. It leaves the morning open for activities at local libraries, or even at home learning. I still believe in getting my kids up and ready as if they were going to school in the morning and that way the day is full!" -Rachel L.

"I think it's a great steppingstone into kindergarten! When my child would do morning things he was highly likely to want to come home and take a nap. Afternoon preschool helps him get in the habit of staying up all day and building a routine.

I also think that if someone has multiple kids or an older child in grade school, afternoon gives one on one time with the parent and the other child in the morning. Our student has an older sister and she was an only child for five years. His going to preschool in the afternoon has allowed quality time he wouldn't have otherwise gotten (I mean he would but not like this) They are memories I'll always cherish and I'm sad he'll be gone all day next year at kindergarten." -Dominique L.

"We personally like afternoon preschool because it fits our family. Mornings for whatever reason are always hectic. Afternoons the kids are ready to go go go and ready to do something exciting and new. So, we fill that with preschool. All our kids have done afternoon preschool and have loved it. Each experience has been great and unique." -Amanda Z.

"We've loved the PM classes because it has allowed us to still do a lot of activities that are generally offered in the morning (library story time, AM play dates, etc). It also allows for a quiet house during naptime for our younger siblings while big brother is at school!" -Mindi P.
